NEW ROADS WILL NOT BE TORN UP BY GAS COMPANY

In connection with the Manoa valley improvement work which starts Monday morning, the Honolulu Gas Company is planning to spend considerable money on its mains in the form of cross cuts at the intersection of streets in order that when the present mains wear out it shall not be necessary to tear up the street work to repair them.

The mains at present are laid in the roads which will soon be covered with concrete. By laying cross cuts, however, to the parking strips on each side of the road, the gas company, when the present mains give out, will have only to lay new pipes in the parking strips and connect them with the cross cuts to continue the service.

By this system the new road will not be disturbed for a concrete surface is never so good when once torn up, although the work of repaving be carefully done.

Similar procedure will be carried out on the Beach Walk improvement work.

Application for Bail for Man Accused of Waikiki Murder is Denied

Sufficient legal and competent evidence for a trial jury to find M. Fugimoto, alias Waichi Fugimoto, guilty of murder in the first degree, is at the command of Capt. of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, according to an affidavit by him to this effect filed in Circuit Judge Ashford's court today by Deputy City Attorney Will T. Carden.

Fugimoto is charged with the murder of Hiroki Emoto, late chauffeur for James B. Castle. McDuffie's affidavit by him to this effect filed in move by Attorneys Andrews, Pittman and Sheldon, Fugimoto's attorneys, to have the defendant released on bond. Following argument, Judge Ashford declined to allow Fugimoto bail.

Aside from commenting on evidence alleged to be in his possession, McDuffie says, in his affidavit, that he believes Fugimoto will be convicted by a trial jury of the crime of murder in the first degree.
